Biography

Stacie Wilkinson is a Calgary based Executive Leadership Coach. Prior to becoming a coach, Stacie spent 25 years in both technical and business roles in Canada's energy industry. Her experiences include strategic planning, operations management, business improvements, and implementing profitability optimization and cost reduction tactics. She has built teams, implemented processes, managed change, and created great leaders. She has worked at and held Director and Vice President roles at Suncor Energy, Husky Energy, Parkland, and Accenture.

Stacie's coaching philosophy is to become your strategic thinking partner. She loves to work with STEM leaders of all levels who are inspired to be better and make a difference. From field operations to the boardroom, Stacie has personal experience as to what growth challenges her clients are facing. She also knows firsthand the power of coaching and the positive impact of a high trust coaching relationship. Stacie is high energy and collaborative. She motivates, inspires, engages, and appreciates where her clients are on their path to success. Her style of coaching is future and solution focused, allowing clients to get comfortable with the uncomfortable.

Educated as an engineer, Stacie is now a PCC level coach from the International Coaching Federation. She is also a Certified Practitioner with EQ-i 2.0, EQ-i 360, and the Leadership Circle Profile™.
